NEW CHANGES TO THE ROMAN MISSAL –

Why the Changes to the Penitential Act?
There are several different options for this part of the Mass: we will look at the Confiteor (I Confess) this week. When we admit in public together that we have sinned, it emphasizes that we gather as a community where each person has need of God's mercy. This version is closer to the Latin original text and has strong connections to scripture: King David admitted to the Lord that he had greatly sinned (1 Chronicles 21:8); and the repetition that we have sinned through "my fault" three times and the striking of our breast with our fist recalls the tax collector who stood at the back of the temple who humbled himself before God (Luke 18:13). By striking our breast with a closed hand we show we want to crush the sin that lies in our heart and humble ourselves before God to receive His mercy. In the Prayer of Absolution, the priest asks or petitions God to be merciful to us: "May almighty God have mercy on us, forgive us our sins and bring us to everlasting life". But this is not the absolution we receive in the Sacrament of reconciliation. The emphasis in the whole Penitential Act is something very positive and hope-filled because it highlights our need and desire for God's loving, abundant mercy.
